

Dear Sir, Madam,

I read on the BBC website that the Bord Na Gaidhlig would welcome suggestions on how to promote the language.

In that context, I would contend that it would be useful to publish an ongoing Gaelic course - consisting of a short article, vocabulary and brief outline of grammar - in one of the major Scottish dailies (Scotsman/Herald) every weekend, when people have leisure time at their disposal.

You might have to pay the papers to do so, but it could be an investment well spent.

kind regards, George Hall